ANDREW STICKEL

A lot of times, clients are happy with our service, but aren't quite sure what to write in a review. Below are some questions that should give you some ideas and will make your review more useful for other people that need our services.

- What was the problem you had prior to coming to our law firm?
- Where did we represent you?
- Why did you choose our firm specifically over any other law firm?
- What did you like about working with our law firm?
- What was the outcome of your case?
- How has your life changed since achieving this outcome?

We really appreciate your review. The more detail you can provide, the better, but we'd still love a shorter review as well if you're short on time or inspiration.
